LYCOMING COLLEGE
WILLIAMSPORT, PA. 17701

VANTAGE POINTS

Must be steak dinner — NO SECONDS!

Mark Berry in "protest" garb.

Wh-Whoa!

*We've seen
so many changes in our lives
and in the world since we first became friends.*

Dennis Munson

This is obviously the place to be during the Lyco-Luau.

Why do I have to live on the third floor?

Jill Rice and Lonna Zook

Who says Lyco students are apathetic?

Lycopoly is a strenuous game!

POINTS OF VIEW

Hey! Aren't you guys supposed to be in class?

Some of the changes have been good, others have been difficult

Fun on the quad.

Anthony Merrill

Dr. Fisher, Keith Little and Kirby Watson.

"Don't sign anything!" — Jeff Young

Protesting students listening intently for information about the new alcohol policy.

Sean Coxen at the Beta Beta Beta birthday celebration for Charles Darwin.

POSITIONS

Why don't you guys use the door?

Hold on, Julie!

"Wait, Mom. We're getting our picture taken."

The Billtown Quartet — Keith Barrows, Ben Landon, Bill Frick, Michael Munford.

*But through it all we've known
we could always count on each other*

A sideline view.
Too cute for words.

Tim Victor and Michael Munford.

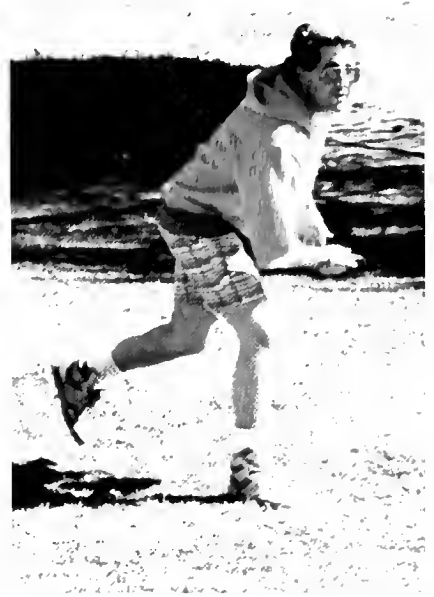

"Geez, I wish we woulda brought our shoulder pads."

There is nothing like a long-distance phone call to make your day.

ANGLES

Business as usual at Lyco.

Eric Reid

If we couldn't talk things over and make things right

Seniors Kathy Brown and Jen Beebe are members of the Lycoming Choir.

Another cafeteria ordeal.

Seniors Pam Gager and Jen Grecco are also members of the Lycoming Choir.

A romp on the quad.

Okay. Move away from the table slowly — and no funny stuff.

Hey, Seniors! Say good-bye to this scene!

would have made it through the changing times.*

You can get anything you want — at Alice's Restaurant?

Would you guys mind turning around?

Some observers of the Lyco Luau.

The Allens visiting some freshmen.

Jen Johnson and Joe "Quazi" Calderon.

Go-Go Gomez gets a lift from his brothers and a friend.

A few of the Jack's Corner Crew.

OUTLOOKS

Janet Gainer was a Resident Assistant in Crever Hall this year.

Lori Mertes and a friend.

*That's why
even with all that's happened our friendship hasn't changed except to grow stronger."*
— D. Walley

Please don't let it be "air mail".

Sue Decker and Patti Sue Lockwood.

Computers are lots of fun.

Jim Coll

Kurt thinks computers are fun, too.

NEWSWORTHY

So you thought all of your tests were over and done with now that you're graduating, wrong! We have put together one more for you. Use the pictures that correspond to the question numbers as references or to provide the answers. This little quiz will test how much time you spent with your head buried in the ground in the past year. Starting from the top left and proceeding clockwise.

[1] Identify these two people and tell their stories.

[2] Who is this man, and why was he made famous in 1987?

[3] President Reagan and Soviet Leader ____ met in December for a three day Summit and signed a/an ____ agreement. In this picture, President Reagan is most likely saying: 1) "Hey, Mickey your glasnost is open," b) "I hate it when Nancy does that, it's so embarrassing," c) "Welcome to America, it's usually not this cold, but I guess this is tropical compared to Siberia."

[4] This famous Hollywood entertainer passed away in June of pneumonia; he was 88. Identify him. [Hint: Ginger Rogers]

[5] This picture shows a) Army General James V. Pierce III at a swearing in ceremony making him commander of all U.S. Forces in the Persian Gulf, b) Marine Clayton Lonetree at the court martial hearing at which he was accused of giving secrets about the U.S. embassy in Moscow to his Soviet girlfriend, c) Lt. Colonel Oliver North at the Iran-Contra Hearings.

[6] On ____, known as "Black ____" the Dow Jones industrial stock average dropped 508 points. Was this a larger or smaller drop than the 1929 crash which triggered the Great Depression?

Answers (points for each question are explained with the answer.)

[1] a) Tammy Faye and Jim Bakker: (1 point)
b) Jim Bakker withdrew from the PTL ministry after confessing to a sexual encounter with a young woman: (1 point) Tammy Bakker withdrew from the ministry to undergo treatment for drug dependency: (3 points).

[2] Robert Bork, he was President Reagan's nomination for the Supreme Court, but was rejected by the Senate; (give yourself 3 points if you got this right.)

[3] Mikhail Gorbachev; (1 point). Nuclear Arms Control; (2 points)

[4] Fred Astaire; (if you knew without the hint — 2 points, if you needed the hint — 1 point. Be honest.)

[5] c) (if you got this give yourself 1 point. If you got it wrong, subtract 100 points — it was easy!)

[6] a) October 19; (2 points)
b) Monday; (3 points)

The Class of 1988 revived and modified traditions at Lycoming, as well as starting two new ones. The Class President, Cindy Smith, was the first officer to make an address at commencement in many years. She congratulated her classmates and called attention to the achievements of the class. She explained the "Class of 1988 Senior Scholarship Fund," which is the largest senior pledge program to date. The class raised over $12,000 for the endowment of a $1,000 scholarship to a senior each year, beginning in 1993 at the five year reunion. This fund is the first in over four years, and it is the first scholarship endowed by a senior class. Funding for the Senior Party was raised at the concession stand at football games and through the sale of redesigned commencement announcements. In addition to all of this, the class sold video tapes of graduation weekend, the first year that such a memento has been offered.

Forty-one students participated in the Internship Program this year. Internships are co-sponsored by the college and a public or private agency for academic credit. The purpose of this program is for students to take the theoretical concepts they have learned in class and apply them to actual experiences in their field of study. Students not only work in their field, but also read texts, write papers, and take examinations under the supervision of a college instructor. One student is quoted in the program for the Spring Luncheon for Internships, Share Programs, and Practicums as saying, "My internship was, by far, the best thing that I did as a student. I learned so much through my assignments, and the support I got from my sponsor and the faculty was outstanding."

The Senior Exit Interview Program was first conducted during Spring '87. Its purpose is to survey the impressions that graduating students have of the college. Eleven interviewers were recruited and trained from the faculty and staff this year to meet with a random sample of students. Sixty-four of the seventy-six chosen responded, and three seniors took advantage of the "open interview period." Dean Day and Mr. Hartsock compiled the seniors' comments about the issues of academic preparation, close friendships and social atmosphere, administrative concerns, facilities and communications.

Students saw the strengths of the college in the following:

- "the faculty care sincerely about the students' educations and challenge them to do their best"
- the new security system makes students feel safer
- the Student Judiciary System is a worthwhile route for students to voice their feelings
- the 63% Greek sample applauded the Greek System
- the attractiveness of the campus and the service of the housekeepers
- activities such as Theatre Productions, Rock and Noon Hour Concerts, Comedy Shows, Cultural Arts Series, Campus Carnival

The students noted weaknesses in the following areas:

- not enough full-time faculty in some departments
- one proctor instilled feelings of invaded privacy and harassment
- monetary fines are inconsistent, ineffective, and not speedily imposed
- administration seems more concerned with giving impression of caring about students than actually demonstrating it
- weight room is not large enough to accommodate non-varsity athletes
- pool hours should be extended
- residents and commuters felt the Wertz Center is not an adequate social gathering place

Lil Makatche — Archaeologist Extraordinaire

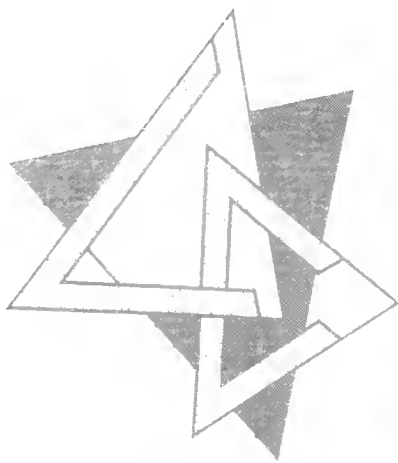

- bookstore hours and inventory are inadequate
- maintenance of dorms (heating, repairs, etc.) is inadequate
- need for skiing and hiking trips, dancing and aerobic programs
- need for sponsorship of baseball, lacrosse and weightlifting teams

- need for more women's sports
- there is a breakdown in communication of social, academic and administrative information

The students made the following suggestions for improvement:

- elimination of B grades or B- in the A/B Pass/Fail system
- substitute work fines for monetary fines
- use "no-purpose" room for racquetball and handball courts
- modernization of Wertz to accommodate more flexibility in programming and to make it a social center for the campus
- bus trips to cultural and shopping areas (major cities)
- increase student/ administrative relations through forums
- administrators should become more involved in daily life on campus; "that they stand in the cafeteria line at 12:20 on a regular basis and leave by 12:55"
- centralize written communications into one document distributed on a regular basis

After two years of playing second fiddle to the offense, the Lycoming defense captured the headlines during the 1987 football season. The unit man-handled its Middle Atlantic Conference foes all season in leading the Warriors to 6-2-1 slate and a second consecutive runner-up finish in the conference.

The Warrior defense was the MAC's top ranked unit from the first week onward and ended up leading all Division III schools throughout the country by permitting just 35.4 yards rushing per game. Lycoming also finished second in the nation in total defense by allowing only 155.9 yards a game and ended up third nationally in scoring defense by surrendering 7.7 points a contest.

While the defense motored along all season, the offense sputtered in neutral early in the campaign. The unit only scored 21 points in the first three games as the Warriors staggered out to a 2-0-1 start.

The offense broke through for 17 points in the fourth week against Widener but the defense had its worst day of the 1987 season as the Pioneers spoiled Lycoming's Homecoming for the second year in a row with a 24-17 win. While the Warriors mark fell to 2-1-1, the Lycoming defense regrouped after the Widener defeat and allowed just three touchdowns during the final five contests.

One of those surrendered touchdowns came against the Juniata Indians who handed the Warriors a devastating 10-7 defeat in week five. A field goal in the final seconds propelled the Indians to victory and gave Lycoming two consecutive losses for the first time in six years.

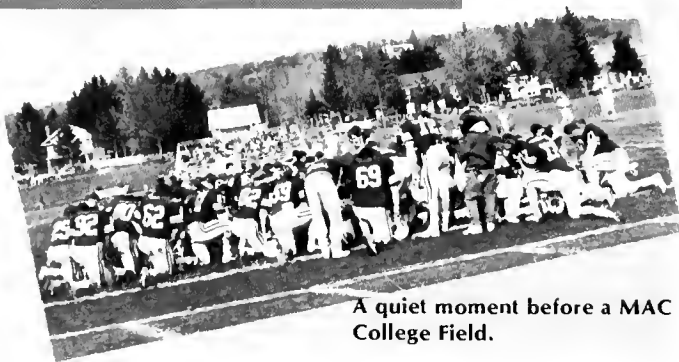

However, the Warriors bounced back strongly the next week against the always tough Moravian Greyhounds. The Lycoming defense flattened the powerful Moravian offense as Lycoming came away with a 30-3 upset victory on the road. Lycoming's Rick Bealer clinched the win with a 94 yard interception return for a touchdown in the third quarter.

After a strong 28-3 win over Albright, Lycoming traveled to Susquehanna to knock off the nationally ranked Crusaders and capture a third straight victory. The Warriors held on to a 7-0 lead until the game's final moments. The Crusaders scored a touchdown with just three ticks remaining and decided to play it safe and kick the extra point for the tie. However, the Warriors broke through the line on the extra point attempt and stuffed the kick to come away with a huge 7-6 victory.

Lycoming then finished off its season in fine fashion by knocking the Wilkes Colonels out of the MAC title hunt with a 14-10 victory. After the Warriors went ahead early in the fourth quarter, the Lycoming defense put a lid on the explosive Colonel attack to preserve the team's fourth straight win.

After two successful campaigns, the young Lycoming field hockey team struggled in 1987 and finished under the .500 mark.

The team compiled impressive five-win seasons in 1985 and 1986. However, last year the squad fell to 3-10-1 overall and went 1-6 in the rugged Middle Atlantic Conference.

Lycoming was just a step behind its opponents all year. The Lady Warriors lost five games by a single goal including two conference losses and a 4-3 defeat to Division II Mansfield. Victories over Marywood, Wilkes and Misericordia highlighted the team's season.

Coach Janis Arp had a very young team to hold together. Five underclassmen and 12 freshmen dotted the roster while lone senior Kim Nagle provided the leadership. Nagle led the team in scoring with seven goals and an assist. Also contributing in the scoring column were juniors Heidi Meakin and Janice Fitzgerald with six goals each, and Toni Ioppolo and Marian Boden who combined for five goals and three assists.

Conference championships.

Coach Jim Burget had several outstanding runners during the 1987 campaign. Freshmen Dave Shearman and Chad Lohman led the men's squad while Eileen Gallagher and Lillian Houck propelled the women.

Shearman and Lohman were the top two Lycoming finishers in four of the team's meets. Also running well were Ted Canaday, Dave Calderone, Butch Hunsinger, Brendan McDonnell and Dave Hauck.

Gallagher and Houck were the first two Lady Warriors across the finish line in three of the women's matches. Freshman Denise Ahern, twice was the ladies' top finisher while Deb Saunders, Margie Burba and Sarunya Coy all contributed fine times.

The men's team finished with a 4-3 mark. However, the squad's best moment came in the MAC championships. The Warriors accumulated 466 points and finished 15 out of 23 teams for the best ever Lycoming effort. Lohman was the men's highest finisher, placing 46th with a time of 29:26.

The women's squad compiled a 1-3 log but didn't have enough ladies to compete as a team for some of its meets. Houck led the Lady Warriors with a 91st place showing at MAC's and Gallagher, Burba and Coy all finished in the top 112.

A 4-11-1 log doesn't appear too impressive, but the 1987 soccer team showed improvement over a dismal season in 1986.

Two years ago the team managed just 16 goals in 15 games. However, the 1987 team found the net. The Warriors scored 34 goals in 16 games and were only blanked on three occasions.

Lighting the fuse for the scoring explosion was Bob Walker. The sophomore tallied a team high 13 goals and 5 assists. Junior John Sames also had an outstanding season with seven goals and three assists. Courtney Walters and George Hollingshead combined for seven goals and four assists, and Gregg Sabbak and Mark Malinosky chipped in with two goals each.

On the defensive side, senior goalie Tom Stinson finished out a fine career at Lycoming by surrendering only two goals or less in five games. Also solidifying the defense was junior back Gary Malaby.

Coach Scott McNeill's team lacked senior leadership this year. Only two seniors were on the roster while 14 underclassmen and nine freshmen dominated the team.

"Win with the Lady Warriors" became more than a slogan during the 1987-88 women's basketball campaign. It became a reality.

The Lady Warriors compiled the second winning season in the program's 10-year history as the squad advanced into the Middle Atlantic Conference playoffs and the Division III national tournament.

After winning just 15 games the previous four years, the Lady Warriors topped the 20-win mark with a 21-7 overall slate. The team also earned itself a national ranking late in the season after upsetting Elizabethtown.

The Lady Warriors made the MAC playoffs after posting a second-place finish in the MAC Northwest Division with an 8-2 log. The squad kept up its winning ways in its second season with a gutty 64-57 road victory over Scranton in the first round.

Lycoming ran out of gas two nights later at Elizabethtown when the Lady Jays beat Lycoming 81-66 for the MAC Northern Division championship. However Lycoming wasn't done for the year.

The squad was one of 32 teams picked for the national tournament. But the ladies lost to eventual sectional champion Franklin & Marshall 75-59 in the first round. Lycoming defeated Thiel College in the section's consolation game to end the year with a win.

"They were a young bunch of kids and never quit on me," said third-year coach Kim Rockey. Nine of the 12 team members were underclassmen and two of Lycoming's top scorers were a freshman and a sophomore.

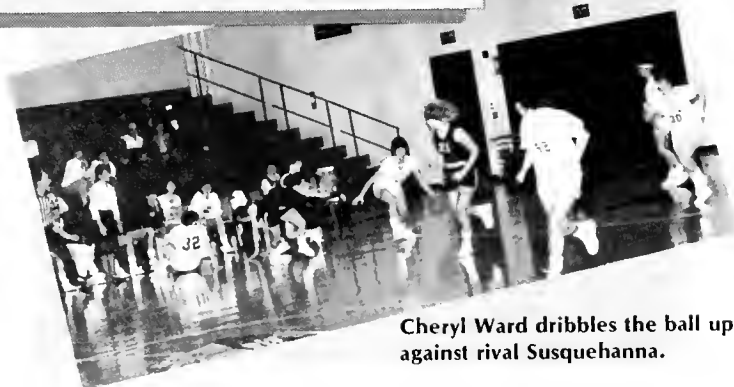

Sophomore Kim Wood was the floor general for the Lady Warriors. The point guard averaged 11.4 tallies a game and set a Lycoming record with 108 assists on the season. Wood was named to the MAC Northwest Division All-Star team along with senior Robyn Hannan.

Hannan led the team in scoring and rebounding. The center netted 13.4 points a game and yanked down a record 309 rebounds on the year. Hannan was named the team's most valuable player. (Con't.)

Senior Karen Ramm finished her Lycoming career by averaging eight points and 3.7 rebounds a game. Sophomore Kristin Friel was the Lady Warriors' other top scorer with 8.9 points a contest.

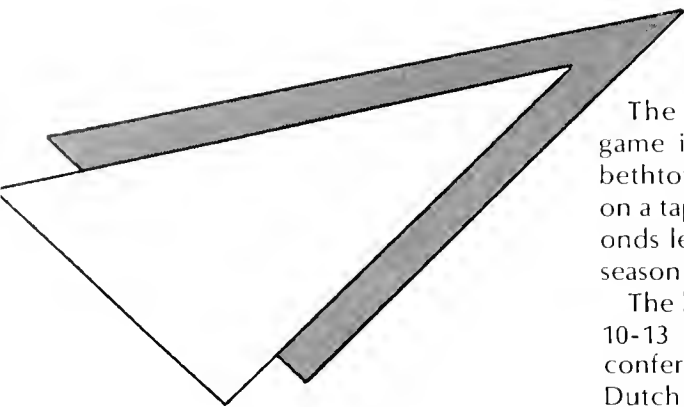

Co-captain Lonna Zook chipped in with 6.9 points a game while sophomores Jill Rice and Cheryl Ward and freshmen Lesley Paine, Nancy Marple and Carol Fenix provided valuable minutes off the bench.

After a poor start and a shaky midseason, the men's basketball team caught fire at the end of the campaign and nearly sneaked into the Middle Atlantic Conference playoffs.

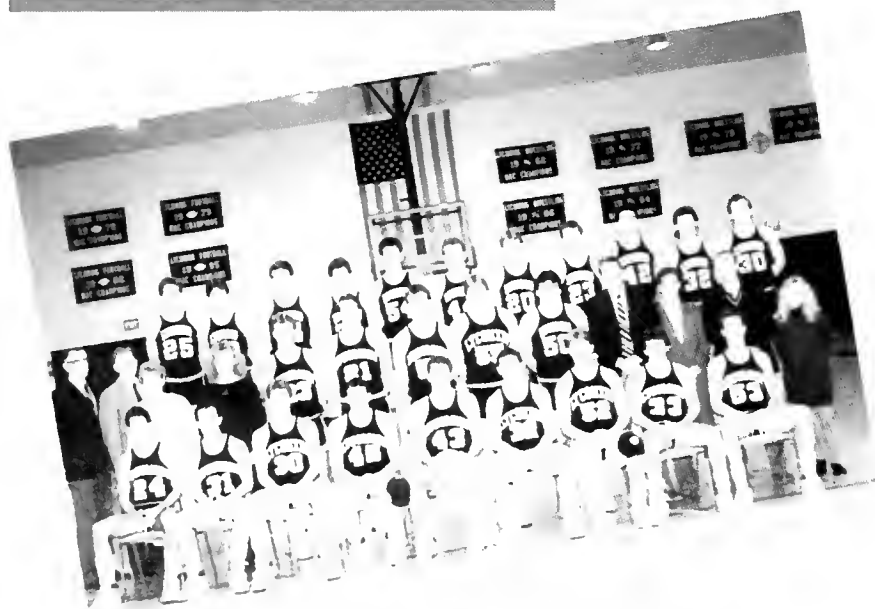

Needing to win its final four conference games to make the playoffs, the squad defeated Albright, Susquehanna and Delaware Valley to set up a showdown in the regular season finale against Elizabethtown.

The Warriors controlled the game in the first half, but Elizabethtown fought back and scored on a tap-in shot with just two seconds left to end Lycoming's late-season charge.

The loss left the Warriors with a 10-13 overall record and an 8-8 conference slate. However, Coach Dutch Burch had reason to smile in his 26th year.

Junior Jeff Jones led all players in Division III by canning 97 three-point shots. Senior Jay Cleveland became the 13th Warrior to crack the 1,000 point barrier in a victory over Drew. Steve Crawford ended his career by averaging 10.8 points a game. Junior Bill Abrams solidified the center spot with a 10.8 average, and point guard Seth Burch was the leader in assists and steals.

The 1987-88 edition of the Lycoming wrestling team added to the program's storied history with several impressive accomplishments.

Led by heavyweight Mike Gilmore and 118-pounder Brian Maw, the grapplers streaked through the regular season with a 14-4 dual meet record and reclaimed the Middle Atlantic Conference championship.

Both Gilmore and Maw won their weight classes at the MAC championships to spearhead Lycoming to its ninth crown. Lycoming nipped nationally ranked Delaware Valley 145.50-135.25 to garner the title the Warriors last won in 1986.

Gilmore and Maw represented Lycoming at the Division III National Tournament. Maw went 1-2 at the tourney while Gilmore finished 4-3 and earned sixth place in the heavyweight class. He became the 24th Lycoming wrestler to gain All-America status.

While many honors were captured at the end of the year, Coach Budd Whitehill reached an impressive milestone in the season's fourth meet. A 22-9 victory over Kutztown gave the 31-year veteran an his 300th coaching victory.

Whitehill, the college's first and only wrestling coach, has a 310-151-5 cumulative record and a .670 winning percentage going into this season.

The season also contained many other highlights. The Warriors won the Juniata Tournament and copped victories over larger schools such as Rutgers, Shippensburg and the Coast Guard Academy.

Maw and Gilmore received the headlines, but the Warriors had plenty of depth. Bryan Neidigh, Jody Bitner and Pete Solomon all contributed by finishing second at MAC's in their weight divisions.

Chris Landis, Matt Miller, Kim Schooley, Bill Young and Troy Gardner also did well at MAC's by capturing fifth place or better in their weight classes. (con't.)

The team lost Maw to graduation but many other talented performers are expected back for a repeat showing this season. Gilmore, 53-11-2 in his three years, will lead the charge.

Also expected to shine will be a host of juniors led by Neidigh and Bitner. Neidigh, a 177-pounder, finished 23-5 a year ago and has a cumulative 49-9-2 mark. Bitner, a 190-pounder, went 22-4-1 last year and is 33-12-1 in his collegiate career.

With a loaded arsenal expected back in 1988-89, Whitehill should once again have enough fire power to rip through the MAC's and add more laurels to the Lycoming wrestling program.

Slight improvement in the women's team and the reinstatement of the men's squad after a two-year absence highlighted the swimming program's 1987-88 season.

The women finished 2-10 under second-year coach Janis Arp. Victories over Juniata and Kings helped the Lady Warriors improve on the previous season's 1-11 slate.

Senior Jody Haney led the women with 17 first-place finishes. Haney captured the Mort Rauff Award given annually to the best Lycoming swimmer.

Also contributing for the ladies were junior Ellen Nichols and sophomore Amy Cunniffe. Nichols finished first on 10 occasions while Cunniffe was the first to touch the wall six times in just five meets. Sue Rubart and Tracy Swales each had five first-place finishes.

Arp also handled the men's team which finished 1-8. The six-man squad was led by sophomore Jeff Lee, who had 11 first-place and 10 second-place finishes.

Freshmen Robert Williams and Doug Sennewald combined for 10 first-place showings and 20 second-place finishes.

The 1987-88 campaign was another frustrating one for the men's and women's tennis squads as they combined for a 1-16 record.

The men, coached by Joe Mark, finished 1-8 overall and 1-4 in the Middle Atlantic Conference. The lone victory was a 5-3 win over Wilkes in the season's seventh match.

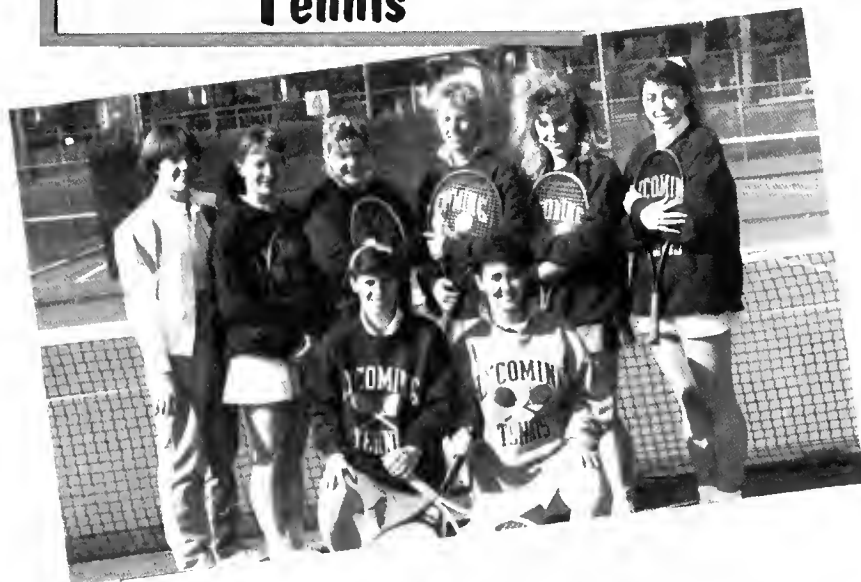

Sophomore Paul Fochtman was the team's top seed for the second consecutive year. Fochtman compiled 3-6 records in both singles and doubles play.

Kirk Bower, Bill Nichols, and Ted Kelleher held down the second through fourth seeds. Nichols, who went 5-3 in singles play, was the only Warrior having a winning record.

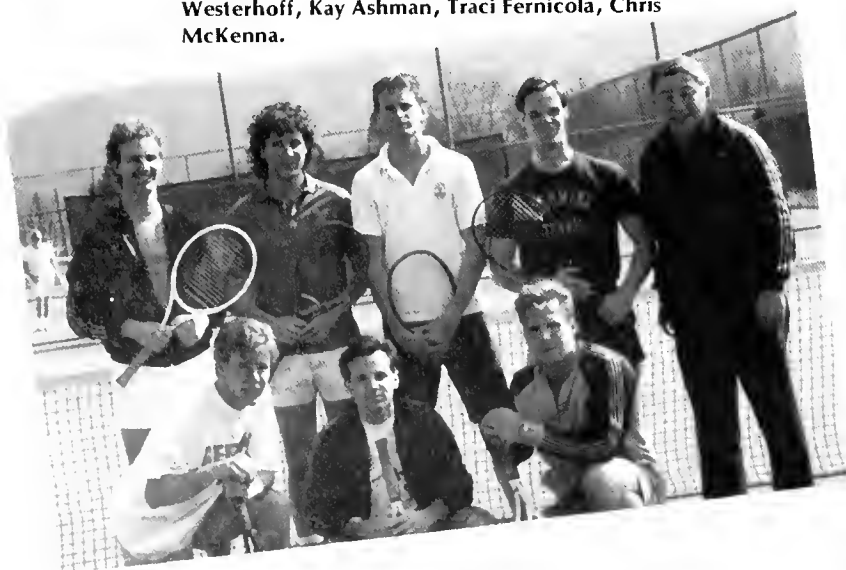

The Lady Warriors finished 0-8 overall and 0-5 in the conference. However Deb Holmes' team was close to victory all year. The women dropped a pair of 5-4 decisions and were defeated 6-3 on three occasions.

Junior Kay Ashman was the squad's top seeded player while Sue Westerhoff, Chris McKenna, Lisa Bruther, Margaux Rendzia and Traci Fernicola rounded out the top six positions. Rendzia was the only member to have a winning record with a combined 7-5 mark in singles and doubles play.

From innertube water polo, to flag football, to basketball, to volleyball, to wrestling, to softball, competition was available in almost any area imaginable.

The intramural sports program saw a resurgence this year at Lycoming College. With the support of Dean Michael O'Brien, the program expanded to involve more non-varsity athletes and non-Greeks than ever before. The program truly united the campus in sports competition throughout the year.

The variety of events seemed almost as varied as the participants.

The intramural sports program provided students the opportunity to make new friends, learn new skills, and to feel the struggle of competition and the joy of winning, while learning to be gracious in defeat.

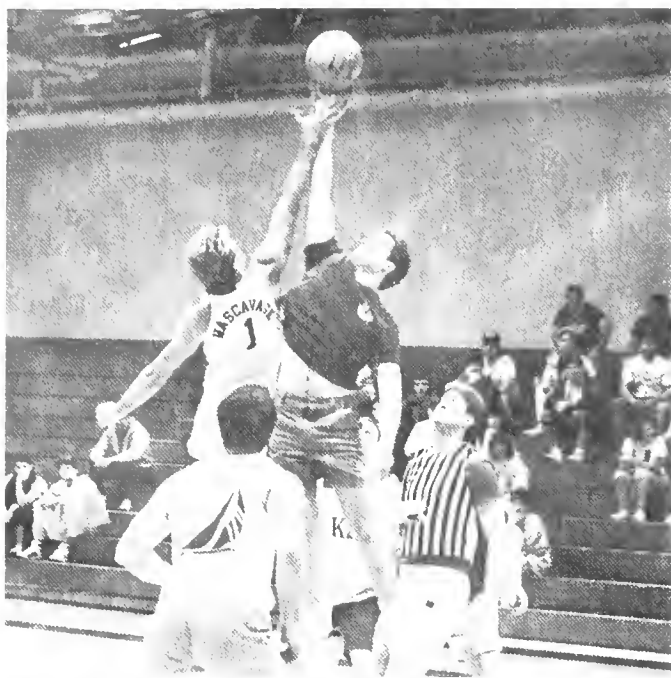

All of the students gained tremendously from participating in the intramural program, and all of them are to be complimented for their time and effort.

Intramurals

Four-year swimmer Jody Haney led the women's team with 17 firsts.

In a disappointing season, the field hockey team lost 5 games by only 1 goal.

A late season rally fell just short of getting the men's basketball team into the MAC playoffs.

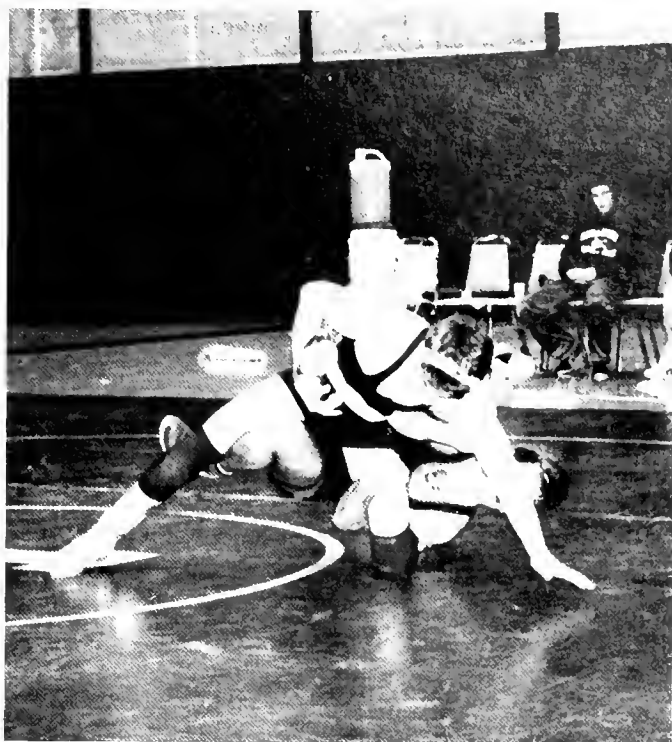

The cross country season featured the men's highest MAC finish and fine seasons for individual women runners.

A bid to the NCAA Division III National Tournament capped an exciting season for the Lady Warrior basketball team.

The wrestlers won their ninth MAC team championship and sent two grapplers to compete at the Division III National Tournament.

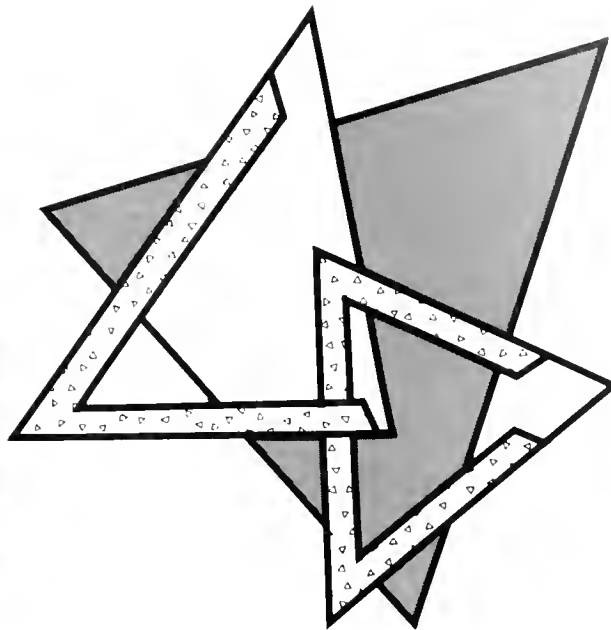

The football team's defensive unit finished the season ranked first against the run and second in the nation in total defense among all Division III schools.

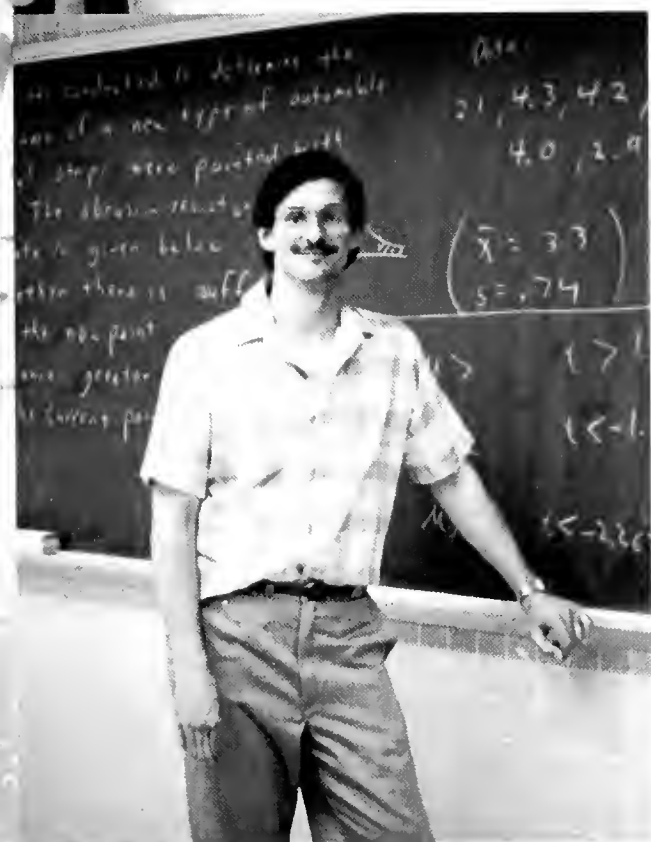

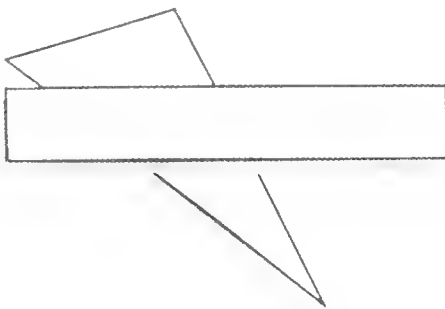

Although they won only 4 games, a young soccer team doubled its goals scored over the previous year.

Faculty and Administration

Logan A. Richmond graduated from Lycoming College in June, 1954. He accepted an offer to join the faculty soon after this, and continued his education, earning an M.B.A. from New York University. As reported in the Lycoming Quarterly by Cindy Smith, "Logan Richmond is generally recognized as the driving force in developing Lycoming's Accounting Department into what it is today: successful." He originated a policy of returning corrected homework papers before exams to allow students to check their mistakes, and he instituted the requirement of term papers in accounting classes so that students develop good communication skills. His influence on his students over the 34 years he has been teaching is evident in the fact that many of them wrote their wishes upon learning of his plans to retire.

Of the comments printed by the Quarterly, the one that sums the esteem his students hold for him is that of Richard G. Credo, "You set the standard from which morals, principles and self-discipline developed for myself, as well as for my classmates." Richmond plans to maintain contact with his department in an advisory manner, and commented to Cindy Smith, "Retirement is the end of another stage in my life that has so far taken the most amount of time."

Professor Hollenback lectures to one of his many marketing classes.

John G. Hollenback graduated from Dickinson Jr. College, predecessor of Lycoming College, and he continued his education at the University of Pennsylvania, earning a B.S. and an M.B.A. After two years of teaching at the University of Oklahoma, Hollenback began his 36 year career at Lyco. Affectionately referred to as "Happy Jack," he has taught both marketing and accounting courses, and was Chairman of the Business Administration Department for 20 years.

Hollenback has been active in both campus and community organizations, and in an interview with Katie Chadwick for the Lycoming Quarterly he commented, "Working with young people for such an extended period of time has certainly made me feel much younger than I am." Hollenback also discussed his view that the campus and buildings at Lycoming College have undergone more change than the student population over the years. He recalled football on the quad and dressing for dinner from his undergraduate days. Although he has enjoyed his years at Lycoming, Hollenback looks forward to "having freedom that retirement offers."

Dr. James K. Hummer taught at Lycoming College for 26 years. He served in the USNR from 1944-47. His education includes a B.N.S. from Tufts University (NROTC) in 1946, an M.S. from Middlebury College in 1950, and a Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina in 1956. From 1954-58, Dr. Hummer worked as an Instructor at the College of Wooster, and from 1958-59 he had a Research Fellowship at the University of New South Wales. He was a trainee in the Steroid Training Program at Clark University from 1959-60, and worked as an Assistant Professor at Bucknell University for the two years prior to his employment at Lycoming College. During 1970-71, Dr. Hummer took a sabbatical at the Imperial College of Science and Technology in London. During this time he worked for Nobel Prize Winner Sir Derek Barton.

All of this experience has made Dr. Hummer an asset to the Chemistry Department as well as an inspiration to his students. He instituted the "center of student life in the Science Building" through "Hummer's Kitchen," in which students were able to purchase "sustenance for pursuit of chemistry knowledge." Dr. Bularzik feels that Dr. Hummer will grow great asparagus in his retirement.

Honors' Day

Lycoming College recognized its outstanding students at the annual Honors' Day Convocation on April 12, 1988. The Chieftain Award, Lycoming's most prestigious honor, went to Kim Nagle. Nagle, a mass communication major and student government representative was a member and past president of Beta Phi Gamma sorority. Her other involvements included Publications Board member, Administrative Interview Committee Student Representative, and Student Judiciary Appointments Board member.

The Pocahontas Award, the top honor for a female athlete, went to Colleen McCallus and Kim Nagle. McCallus, a senior biology major, was a four year member of the Lady Warriors varsity basketball program and co-captain of this year's 21-7 team. Known as "Miss Defense" she stands fifth on the all-time Lady Warrior rebounding list. Nagle, a four year field hockey varsity player and two time all Middle Atlantic Conference selection, was the lone senior on the 1987 team and lead the team in scoring with seven goals.

Jay Cleveland, a business administration major, won the Tomahawk Award, the top honor for a male athlete. A four year member of the varsity basketball team and captain of the 1987-88 team, Cleveland became one of thirteen male players to join the Warriors' "One Thousand Point Club" with a career total of 1,123 points. In addition, Cleveland was a two time All-Middle Atlantic Conference choice as well as a Division III American Basketball Coach's Eastern Region selection in 1987.

Michael Gilmore won the Sol "Woody" Wolf Award for the athlete who has shown the most improvement in intercollegiate competition. Andy Mooney and Adrienne Aiken were named the Intramural Athletes of the Year.

In the traditional tapping ceremony, seven juniors were named to the IRUSKA Honor Society for making significant contributions to campus life. Those named included William Abrams, Paul Dennis, Douglas Fealtman, Christina Kovaleski, Jodi Richart, Thomas Speicher, and Amy Womelsdorf. The Women of Lycoming Scholarship was received by Cathy Schenck. John Cruickshank received the Jack C. Buckle Award. Ben Landon was presented with the Junior Book Award given to the best junior student in political science.

The Makisu Award, given by SALC for outstanding service to the college community for dedication above and beyond the realm of one's obligation to the college, was presented to Christina MacGill, director of Alumni and Parent Relations.

The Gillette Foreign Language Prizes for German and Spanish went to Kim Myers and Wendy Sheriff, respectively.

Senior business major Kenneth Schutz received the Wall Street Journal Award for high academic performance and outstanding service to the Business Department.

Award recipients pose following the Honors' Convocation.

Honors' Day

The Biology Service Award, given to a student who has shown good academic work and has fostered the ideals of the department by willingness to become involved, was received by Jodi Richard. Gregg Bennett received the Freshman Biology Award for obtaining the highest overall average in Major's Biology Lecture and Laboratory Course. Awards presented by the Chemistry Department included the CRC Freshman Chemistry Achievement Award given to Debra Wascher and the Outstanding Senior Chemistry Award, Susquehanna Valley Chapter, A.C.S. given to Penny J. Swartwood.

Curtis Hollenbaugh won the Sadler Prize for outstanding achievement in Mathematics. The Ferree Award given to the most active student in Mathematics was received by Luther Wagner.

Michele Fetterolf received both the Dan D. Gustafson Award for the highest standards of literacy and critical excellence in writing and the John P. Graham Award for the highest average in courses taken in English.

The Research and Writing Prize in History was presented to Kathleen Mazzotta. Michael Munford received the Senior Scholarship Prize in History given for outstanding academic achievement in history.

Three music related awards were presented. William Frick received the Mary Landon Russell Award given for outstanding musical development. The Civic Choir Award, given to the choir member who has outstanding musical ability and who has made significant leadership contributions to the choir, went to Mary Ann Swartz. David Snyder received The Walter Mclver Award which is presented to the choir member who has made outstanding campus contributions outside of choir. In addition, Snyder received the Arena Theatre Technical Award.

Alicia Arveson received the Psi Chi Service Award for contribution to the Psychology Department. Theodore Hill won the J. Milton Skeath Award for superior undergraduate achievement and potential for further work in psychology. He was also recognized by the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society by selection as the chapter's nominee in the National Fellowship Competition.

Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity earned the Dean of Student Services Award for Excellence. Service to Lycoming Awards, given for unselfish service and contribution to campus life, were presented to Albert Burba, Randy DeAngelo, Heidi Reichenbach, Roger Mowery, and Dennis Meisel. The Ethel McDonald Pax Christi Award went to William Maurer.

Freshmen named to the Dean's List for the first semester were recognized as Blue Key and Gold Key members by Dean Van Marter.

Organization

Although the Senior Exit Interview Program reported that students feel "out of touch with the pulse of campus life" because of breakdowns in communication, one look at the bulletin boards, thickly layered with dittos and posterboard, gets across the point that there are a lot of things to do at Lycoming College. The organizations on campus cover a variety of interests and purposes, and provide students with an even more fulfilling college experience. College can be more than tests, papers and parties. Students can broaden their preparation for the "real world" by developing organizational and social skills in special interest groups on campus.

— Students can interact through academic groups as a supplement to booklearned knowledge of particular fields of study.

— Religious groups provide students with the ability to share their beliefs and values with peers.

— Student Government, SALC, CAB, and Student Judiciary expose students to methods of operation that can be applied to community, business, and social group procedures after college.

— Greek organizations provide academic and personal support, as well as character development through the bonds of brotherization and sisterization.

— Theatre, Choir, Band, WRLC, and The Arrow provide majors in Theatre, Music, and Mass Communications with hands-on experience to supplement their studies, and allow students of all majors to broaden their experiences and express themselves through artistic and mass media.

Alpha Rho Omega was founded on April 1, 1980, with the goal of forming a sisterhood striving for unity, loyalty, respect, and individuality. The first anniversary of Alpha Rho's charter was February 23, 1988. During the past two semesters, Alpha Rho has inducted 26 new sisters, and for at least the fifth semester in a row the sisterhood received the award for donating the most blood at the American Red Cross bloodmobile. Service projects for this year included Daffodil Day, United Way, the Lycoming Phonathon, concessions at a Williamsport Bills game, and helping out at the Leader North nursing home. For the first time, Alpha Rho won Greek Week this year, placing first in the Greek Sing, Synchronized Swimming, Softball, Volleyball, Keg Toss, Tug of War, Corkscrew Relay, and Water Polo.

On December 6, 1987, Alpha Sigma Phi, the tenth oldest national fraternity, celebrated the 142nd anniversary of its inception at Yale University. The Gamma Rho chapter of Lycoming College was founded in May, 1965. The fraternity was founded to foster education, assist in the building of character, promote college loyalties, perpetuate friendships, and to cement social ties within its membership. Service projects for the brotherhood this year included the Lycoming Phonathon and Daf-fodil Day.

Beta Phi Gamma was founded on October 13, 1976, after the TKE Little Sisters disbanded, becoming the first sorority at Lycoming. The founding sisters created the group for the social opportunities as well as scholarship and service to the community. Beta Phi placed third in this year's Greek Week games.

There were a total of 71 sisters and their service projects included helping with Daffodil Days, helping the Girl Scouts, and often ushering at plays in the Arena Theatre. A big event for the sisters this year was their Second Annual Scope Party.

Gamma Delta Sigma was founded on November 7, 1977. The sorority's service projects included Daffodil Days, and collecting food for underprivileged families in the Williamsport community. Gamma Delt received the All-Women's trophy for the highest G.P.A. and placed second in the Greek Week games.

Mandy Gates explained, "We are more than Greek. We are a bond of love and friendship and it means sticking together through thick and through thin. Our trials and triumphs, that's what we take pride in." As Pan-Hel president this spring, and as a sister of Gamma Delt, Lisa DeFalco worked hard to maintain relations between the sororities.

Kappa Delta Rho was founded in May of 1953 at Lycoming College. This year, there were 51 brothers and KDR won the Greek Week games.

The brotherhood continued its traditional service project, selling fruit baskets that are sent to students during finals week by parents. KDR held their annual Red Rose Formal at the King's Inn. The brotherhood also raised $806.00 in a fundraiser for UNICEF.

Lambda Chi Alpha, founded nationally at Boston University in 1909, was established at Lycoming in 1951. Formerly Lambda Phi Delta, the fraternity was founded on the principle of forming a well-rounded individual.

During the fall semester, Lambda Chi gave Christmas presents to the children at Bethune Douglas Community Center as a service project. The largest service project of the brotherhood was the Easter Seals Run on March 27. The Lambda Chi Founder's Formal was held at the King's Inn during the spring semester.

Sigma Pi, founded nationally at Vincennes University in 1897, was established at Lycoming in 1953.

Sigma Pi won I.F.C. intramural basketball, as well as the overall I.F.C. intramural title. Many of the brothers played on the Warrior Football team, and contributed to its 6-2-1 record.

Service projects of the brotherhood included the Lycoming phonathon, working at St. Anthony's soup kitchen, and Easter Seals. The chapter also assisted in the restoration of another Sigma Pi chapter's house.

Tau Kappa Epsilon was founded nationally in 1899 at Illinois Wesleyan University. It is the largest fraternity in the country, and Lycoming's Mu Theta chapter was founded on April 12, 1969. TKE has received the Dean of Student Services Award for Academic Excellence for three consecutive semesters and placed second in this year's Greek Week games.

Fundraising projects of the brotherhood included candy sales, car washes, and the revival of the TKE Haunted House, which was a service project for a local M.D.A. chapter. TKE brothers not only excelled in academics and service to the community, but were also involved with campus activities. TKE brothers held leadership positions in I.F.C., CAB, WRLC, and the Karate Club.

David Bonsick plays in the WFX-Theta Chi charity game.

The purpose of Theta Chi fraternity is to develop an organized brotherhood within the context of campus life, a brotherhood oriented both inwardly and outwardly.

In the 1987-88 school year, Theta Chi's service projects included a charity basketball game against WFX for a local chapter of SADD, Daffodil Day, the Lycoming phonathon, and at Christmas the brothers set up a Christmas tree and served a meal for the people at St. Anthony's. Theta Chi placed third overall in Greek Week, and second overall in IFC intramurals.

Pan-Hel

Yvonne Harley, Christia Larson, Lisa DeFalco, Jen Price, Eileen Esposito.

IFC and Pan-Hel serve to bring the sororities and fraternities together to work on Greek relations, and to deal with the rules and regulations imposed on Greeks by the College.

IFC works on rules for its intramural program and also works on the regulations for rush and pledging. Pan-Hel has, over the last two or so years, worked on and seen the results of a formal rush program.

"It's good to see brothers and sisters of one organization working with another organization," says one Greek, "especially when there's an IFC or Pan-Hel function like their party to induct the new pledges."

The cooperation between the organizations culminates in Greek Week during the Spring Semester. Events include the Greek Sing, Synchronized Swimming, Keg Toss, and many other races and events on the quad. This year's Greek Week champions were Kappa Delta Rho and Alpha Rho Omega.

Romeo and Juliet

The Arena Theatre production of Romeo and Juliet required the time and effort of well over 40 members of the faculty, staff, and student body. This fall semester production was directed by Robert Falk. The set and costumes were designed by Jerry Allen. The Stage Manager was Margaux Rendzia, and James Huffman was not only responsible for light design, but also was the Assistant Technical Director.

The cast included Dave Snyder (Romeo), Ann Yastishock (Juliet), Monica Cawley (Nurse), Mark Berry (Mercutio), Bob Kind (Paris), Wendi Pass (Lady Capulet), Chris Cooper (Tybalt), George Tyger (Benvolio), and Dr. MacKenzie (Montague).

The Arena Theatre production of Fay and Michael Kanin's Rashomon was directed by Jerry Allen, who was also responsible for scene and costume design. The play is set in Japan, and basically is the recounting of four different versions of the same story. The nine-member cast included John D. Rue (Priest), Mark Berry (Woodcutter) Tom Ryersbach (Wigmaker), Joel Ambrose (Deputy), John Coffin (Bandit), Bob Kind (Husband), Wendi Pass (Wife), Debbie Saunders (Mother), and Monica Cawley (Medium).

James Huffman was the Assistant Technical Director, and Leianne McMartin was the Stage Manager. David Snyder was in charge of

Campus Activities

The members of the Campus Activities Board put a great deal of time and effort into finding entertainment and activities which students, faculty, administrators, and at times the surrounding community will enjoy. The best way to show how hard they have worked is to list the many events that CAB has brought to Lycoming College.

Singers/Performers — Randy Mauger, Mark Rust, Barry Drake, Ray Owens, Cairie

Comedians — Second City Comedy Troupe, Comedy Cabaret, Earl Reed

Mentalist — Craig Karges

Plays — Chapter Two, Barefoot in the Park

Films & Videos — Beverly Hills Cop II, Robocop, Beanbag Theater movies every week

Special Events — Octoberfest, 50's Dance, Roommate Game, Denny Dent, Superbowl Sunday, Gambelfling, Light Up Lycoming

Bands — Six of Another

Concerts — Outfield & Mason Ruffner, Hooters & Glen Burt-nick, Debbie Gibson & Modern Man

CAB attempts to satisfy the wide variety of tastes at Lycoming College, and should be commended for their efforts.

Tri-Beta

Tri-Beta was founded in 1922 at Oklahoma City University by Dr. Frank G. Brooks. The honor society was chartered here at Lycoming in 1980. Beta Beta Beta strives for the stimulation of scholarship, dissemination of scientific knowledge, and promotion of biological research.

On February 12, 1988, Tri-Beta decided to throw a birthday bash for Charles Darwin. Calling it the Chuckie D. Party, guests were asked to come as evolutionary dead ends. Both students and faculty dressed up in costumes: flower children, Mr. and Mrs. C. Darwin, evolutionary dead end plants, and much more.

The purpose of the Business Society is to help build the prestige of business to majors in that department. Members of the society gather to learn current trends in business and to spend time associating with business people. This group provides business majors with support in their academic endeavors and their preparation for their careers.

Circle K

Circle K is a national service organization that is affiliated with Kiwanis and Key Club. Lycoming College's chapter raised approximately $600.00 for the children's heart program at Geisinger through their "rock-a-thon" and "bowl-a-thon" events. The group helped out at all campus activities and events, also worked with St. Anthony's and with the American Rescue Workers. The group gave a dinner to a needy family at Christmas, and also went Christmas caroling at a nursing home this year. The largest project of Circle K was its sponsorship of the American Red Cross Bloodmobile each semester.

Band

Seniors Jeff Young and Charles Kremer rehearse before the band performs a concert.

The Lycoming College Concert Band, under the direction of Dr. Grant Jeffers, consists of 34 members of various majors. The ensemble performs annual Christmas and Spring Concerts, and had the honor this year of performing at Allenwood Federal Prison. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) presented the ensemble with an award for Superior Expertise. The ensemble also performs at the Baccalaureate and Commencement ceremonies each year. The grand finale for the members of the ensemble was a picnic at Dr. Jeffers' home in the spring. Entertainment was provided by the director's new son, John.

Choir

The Lycoming Choir performs annually at major campus events such as Freshman Convocation, Christmas Candlelight Service, and Graduation Weekend.

This year's tour choir performed during Spring Break on Long Island, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Virginia Beach, and Harrisburg. The tour focused on cities of historical note. In addition to the Spring tour, the group had two weekend tours. On one occasion, the members of the tour choir sang on the SUNY Binghamton Campus and were joined in the final pieces by the SUNY choir. The situation was reversed a month later when the SUNY Choir sang on our campus and was joined by the entire Lycoming Choir for the final works.

Catholic Council

The Catholic Council's program served to broaden students' knowledge by showing them a larger picture of the Church. The organization was involved both on the campus and in the larger community. Weekly fellowship and meals combined with religious activities to offer students a different type of social experience. Deliveries of fruit baskets during finals and birthday cakes sent by parents were some campus service activities during the year. Catholic Council also reached out to the larger community with contributions to local and national charities.

Rev. Marie Lindhorst was the advisor for Chapel Fellowship.

Students dance at the CAB/Chapel Fellowship 50's dance.

Chapel Fellowship served the Protestant community of Lycoming College. Students participated in a wide range of activities while sharing common visions of faith. The group co-sponsored an alcohol-free 50's dance with CAB and participated in the campus carnival. Work at St. Anthony's Center, contributions to Wise Options for Women and the American Red Cross, and a clothing drive for the needy were among the projects which benefitted the local community. Rev. Marie Lindhorst, Chapel Fellowship's advisor, supervised retreats at Camp Kline. Chapel Fellowship wishes Rev. Marie the best of luck in the future since she will be leaving her post at Lycoming College.

Education Club

The Education Club was formed to inform and better the quality of student teachers. Although the club is only in its second year, it serves to bring future educators together to discuss the many facets of their curriculum and their field. Education majors not only take classes, but also spend time as student teachers in area schools. This year the club sold student directories as a fund raiser. A lecture was given by John Burdett of the Pennsylvania National Education Association. Through club activities, student teaching, and the Lycoming curriculum, education majors may prepare realistically for their careers.

English Society

The English Society provides a support group for majors in English. The group meets to discuss literature in social settings. Occasions of this sort include Christmas and End-of-the-year gatherings at the homes of professors in the department. These events usually attract alumni, who are helpful in encouraging undergraduate English majors about the many career opportunities that are available to them.

Karate Club

The members of the Karate Club

The Karate Club has existed at Lycoming College for approximately ten years. William W. Bubb of Montoursville is the advisor of the group which includes both students and community people. The objective of the club is to "guide individuals in the principles of character formation, etiquette, and mental improvement; including understanding of one's self, which separates Karate-do from other forms of combative sports."

Nursing Society

The Nursing Society exists to provide service to Lycoming College and the surrounding community, to promote leadership and professionalism among nursing majors, to aid the academic development of individuals, and to create unity in the nursing community. This year the society sponsored a car wash and a bake sale as fund raisers. In view of the rigorous schedule that nursing majors undertake, this society provides an ideal support group.

Physics Society

Dr. Fisher, Kirby Watson and Keith Little move equipment for a physics exhibit on Community Day.

The Physics Club provides a group within which physics majors may discuss their curriculum and their field. Students are able to associate on a more personal level with their professors, and are known to enjoy practical jokes.

WRLC began broadcasting in 1976, and since then it has provided entertainment and information for the campus and the Williamsport area. Although a majority of the staff was freshmen, both new and old members worked hard under the direction of the Station Manager, Tom Speicher, to keep things running smoothly. The Executive Staff consisted of Tom Speicher, Brian Long, Dave Mann, Jeff Young, Lu Wagner, Kurt Weirich, and Dyane Stillman. Special programming included a New Music Show with Doc Mohawk — a.k.a. Jeff Young, Holly's Metal Shop, The Demolition Theatre with Dave Mann and Eric Johansen, Zippy-P's Classic Rock Show; as well as Jazz, Classical, and Comedy shows with Lu Wagner, Sean Coxen, and Jay Tennenbaum. Brian Long and Steve Sant organized daily newscasts, and Tom Speicher and Ken Weingartner worked on Sportwrap. Tom succeeded in raising approximately $3,000 in underwriting fees so that WRLC could broadcast Warrior Football and Basketball; as well as Williamsport Bills games during May Term.

Interaction

Organizations at Lycoming College provided students with a variety of activities during the 1987-88 school year. These groups served one or more of three general purposes: allowing interaction among group members, giving members the opportunity to organize activities in which the entire student body may participate, and providing service to and interaction with the Williamsport community and organizations that are not necessarily affiliated with Lycoming College. In these three areas, organizations helped students broaden their experiences and interests.

Interaction among group members was evident in the weekly, monthly, or bi-monthly meetings during which activities were planned and issues were discussed. This interaction was supplemented, in many instances, by off-campus retreats during which students could interact away from the college setting. These activities strengthened groups from within, allowing them to benefit the rest of the campus and the community in general.

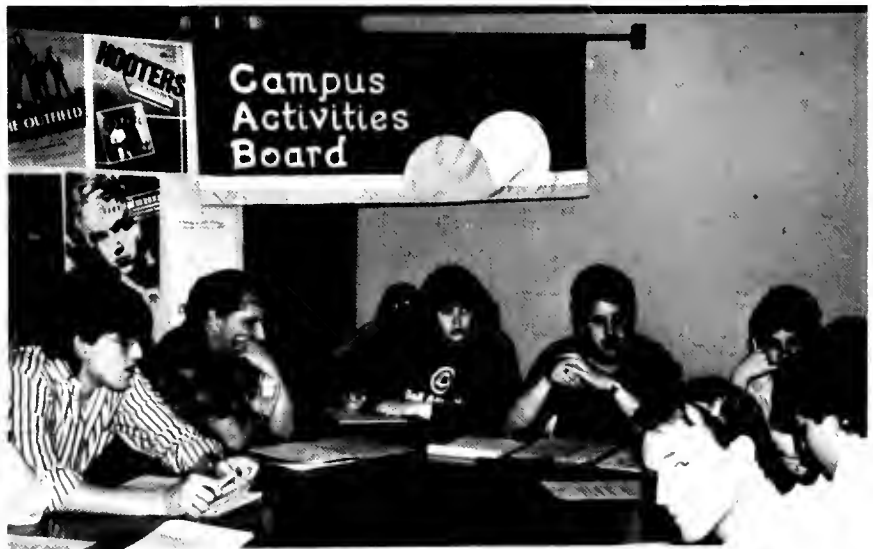

Academic/professional groups provided the campus with activities that were career and/or educationally oriented. Several departments and groups brought guest speakers to Lycoming giving an added perspective to specific fields of study and careers.

The Campus Activities Board was a group whose main function was the planning of events for the campus. On a large scale, CAB organized concerts on campus such as The Hooters, The Outfield, and Debbie Gibson. These major events required months of work from promotion to security to loading and unloading of equipment. CAB also sponsored less-involved programming such as The Gamblefling, Coffee House and Jack's Corner entertainment, and movies in the Beanbag Theatre. Known for working with other organizations on the campus, CAB also co-sponsored events such as the traditional Oktoberfest and a 50's dance. The Arena theatre, band, and choir provided students with the means for artistic expression while serving the campus and community with cultural events and entertainment. The two large-scale productions in the Arena theatre this year, Rashomon and Romeo and Juliet involved students from many majors, faculty and individuals from the Williamsport area.

Involvement

The Lycoming College Band and Choir provided learning experiences for their members, entertainment for audiences, and music for campus events such as the Christmas Candlelight Service, Light-up Lycoming, Baccalaureate, and Commencement. The Tour Choir shared their talents with audiences in New York, Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania during their spring tour.

WRLC, the campus radio station, was yet another educational and entertainment source for Lycoming College and the WilliamSPORT community. Student radio shows were supplemented by news and sports broadcasts, on- and off-campus public service and promotional announcements.

In another vein, the Student Judiciary, the Student Association of Lycoming College (SALC), IFC and Pan-Hel enforced the rules and regulations of Lycoming College and provided students with a vehicle for expressing their sentiments regarding campus life.

Each organization provided its members with an educational and social experience, while serving the college and the community. Many groups supported themselves with creative types of fund raising. Raffles, food sales, "buck-ins," volleyball marathons and selling programs and food at sporting events were among the traditional projects.

Events such as the Lambda Chi run for Easter Seals, the Theta Chi basketball game for Alcoholics Anonymous and the CROP walk raised money strictly for charities, and group members became familiar with procedures for philanthropic endeavors. Many groups participated in volunteer work for the community including helping at nursing homes, St. Anthon's Center and other institutions.

The combination of social, cultural, educational and service activities of the organizations at Lycoming College gave students a wider range of experience and provided interaction among the student body and with the community.

The 1988 Arrow Staff had no idea how accurate the theme "Perspectives" would be when they chose it during the fall semester. Our decision was the result of the many changes occurring on campus and the reaction of faculty, staff, and students to them.

The Mass Communication and Admissions buildings were completed, the latter causing offices in Long and Rich Halls to change location. Returning students found themselves as confused as freshmen and transfers about how and where exactly to conduct their business with the College. Academic and administrative departments bid farewell to veteran members and welcomed ambitious new workers. The modification of the alcohol policy brought students out of their apathetic state to the quad for a demonstration about the lack of communication of students and student groups with the administration. The Senior Exit Interview Program was refined to give faculty and staff a clear idea of graduating students' observations about Lycoming.

The intramural program was expanded to include more non-Greek and non-varsity participation in sports. Plans for the new science building were finalized, and construction began at the end of the spring semester.

All of these changes provided the Arrow Staff with more than enough reason for its choice of theme. The change that was closest to home for the staff was the loss of third year Editor-in-Chief, Brian Long, when he transferred from Lycoming at the end of the fall semester. Pam Schmouder and Dyane Stillman took over as co-editors, and the final staff list includes the names of people who worked during either or both semesters this year, so the Arrow itself is made up of many perspectives.

Charlie Bollinger, the representative from Herff Jones Yearbook, spent a great deal of time explaining procedures to inexperienced and out-of-practice staff members, and helped pull the 1988 Arrow together artistically with his graphics expertise.

The editors would like to thank everyone who participated as staff members, and also the offices of Student Activities, Public Relations, Alumni and Parent Relations, Career Development, Dean of Students, and the Arena Theatre for their cooperation and assistance in the completion of the 1988 Arrow. A special recognition is given to the Arrow advisor, Susan Beidler, for her patience and dedication, without which the 1988 Arrow would have suffered in credibility.

Colophon

The 1988 ARROW yearbook of Lycoming College, Williamsport, PA was printed in offset lithography by Herli Jones Yearbooks, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. It was printed in a limited edition of 350 copies with 152 pages.

The cover is lithographed, using the lithography method of printing on a white litho base material. The applied colors are Colonial Blue and Saffron. It is mounted on a 120 pt. binder's board. The cover is film laminated to protect and enhance the design.

The endsheets are printed differently front and back. Base material is a 65# White VC-01 vibra color material with Colonial Blue ink as the applied color for the design, photograph and copy.

The paper stock used in the book is as follows: The opening section is in 100# Eurogloss stock. Calais stock, which is a semi-gloss is used for the remainder of the book. It is manufactured by the Mead paper company and is a 80# opaque, bright white stock.

The book is double smyth-sewn in 16 page signatures, using the Kolbus binding system. It is trimmed to a 7 3/4 x 10 1/2 size, rounded and backed.

Composition for the book is as follows: All captions are 8pt. Optima black and body copy is in 10pt. Optima. Sub-headlines, headlines and division pages are accomplished in different type fonts and sizes according to the various sections.

In addition to the number #1 quality black ink used throughout, there are 8 pages of four color and 8 pages of spot color used in the opening section.
